ATTACHMENT A
RECOMMENDATIONS FROM THE CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION COMMITTEE

Item 1. The Department of History proposes, for your consideration, the following changes to its listings in the next edition of the college catalogue.

I. NEW COURSE PROPOSALS

HISTORY 361 Early Islamic History

Catalogue Description: A survey of the early Islamic world roughly from 600 through 1800. Geographical emphasis on the Middle East but includes North Africa, Spain, Central Asia and India. Course examines, but is not limited to: Muhammad and the foundations of Islam, Islamic conquests, early dynasties, rise of independent kingdoms, Islamic Spain, Islamic North Africa, Crusades, Mongol invasions, Moghuls, Safavids, and Ottomans.

Lecture: 3 hours

Rationale: This course is meant to provide students with a general understanding of the beginnings of Islam as a faith and political entity and trace its influence and growth through the nineteenth century. Such awareness is imperative if one is to understand the historical context of current events in the region.

Faculty and Resources Required: The course will require one classroom in Capers Hall, textbooks as outlined in the course syllabus, audio-visual equipment, and Professor Christopher Wright as instructor.

HISTORY 362. Modern Middle East History

Catalogue Description: A survey of Modern Middle East History with an emphasis on those events that provide historical background and context for current affairs in the region. It cover from around 1800 to current events, with an emphasis on the 20th and 21st centuries, beginning with the decline of the Ottoman Empire, and go on to cover the impact of WWI and WWII, Zionism, the rise of modern Middle East states, the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, Arab nationalism, the rise of political Islam and Islamic fundamentalism, a brief history of U.S. interest and activity in the region, the advent and rise of terrorism in the Middle East, and both Gulf Wars.

Lecture: 3 hours
Rationale: As the Middle East has gradually taken center stage in world events, a greater understanding of the region, its people, faith, culture, and history are imperative. This course places current events in their modern historical context to allow students to appreciate how these events have unfolded as well as introduce them to the perceptions and world view of those who live in the Middle East.

Faculty and Resources Required: The course will require one classroom in Capers Hall, textbooks as outlined in the course syllabus, audio-visual equipment, and Professor Christopher Wright as instructor.

HISTORY 364  The Arab-Israeli Conflict.

Catalogue Description: A study of the turbulent history between the Arab countries of the Middle East and the State of Israel. The course will cover the rise of the World Zionist Organization, the impact of WWI and WWII diplomacy on the topic, the creation of the state of Israel, The impact of the state of Israel on the Palestinian people, the various wars and conflicts that have emerged between the Arab states and Israel, as well as the first and second Intifada in the occupied territories, the U.S. role in the conflict, and the impact of the Arab-Israeli conflict on terrorism. The course will cover a period roughly from 1900 to current events.

Lecture: 3 hours

Rationale: Provides students with an opportunity to examine, learn, and understand what is probably the most significant and yet misunderstood conflict in the Middle East. Not only does the course provide the historical context for current events, it is organized in such a way as to allow students to view the situation from a variety of perspectives and perceptions.

Faculty and Resources Required: The course will require one classroom in Capers Hall, textbooks as outlined in the course syllabus, audio-visual equipment, and Professor Christopher Wright as instructor.

II. REVISION OF TITLES AND DESCRIPTIONS OF EXISTING COURSES

A. Proposed change of current title and description of

HIST 385 (473)  The Great Crusade: Americans during the Second World War Three credit hours
A study of the United States in World War II which focuses upon domestic society and the relationship of changing culture to the postwar America of global commitments and the consumption of consumer goods.

To new title and description of:

HIST 385 (473)  World War II  Three credit hours

This course will examine World War II in a global context. The class will closely examine the causes of the conflict in both Europe and Asia. The class will also pay special attention to military campaigns, the importance of the home front, and the pivotal nature of the war in the history of the twentieth century.

Rationale: Current title and description is the one drafted by a now retired professor. Proposed new title and description more accurately reflect the way his successor now teaches the course.

Faculty and Resources Required: The course will require one classroom in Capers Hall, textbooks as outlined in the course syllabus, audio-visual equipment, and Professor Kyle Sinisi as instructor.

B. Proposed change of current title and description of

HIST 384 (488)  The United States and the Patterns of War Since the Late Eighteenth Century  Lecture three hours

The study of the patterns of war from the late eighteenth century to the present, with emphasis on the impact of technology, social-political factors, and organization on the waging of war in general and especially on American military practices.

To new title and description of:

HIST 384 (488)  U.S. Military History  Lecture three hours

This course examines the antecedents and development of United States military policy and the conduct of war from the colonial era to the present. This course proceeds from the premise that the military history of the United States is best understood from a combination of “traditional” military history (an emphasis on battles and commanders) and “new” military history (an emphasis on politics, diplomacy, economics, technology, gender, society, and culture).
Rationale: The military policy of the United States has been defined and shaped by its democratic institutions and remains the crucial factor in how Americans wage war. Professor who now teaches course would like description to adequately reflect that the course will be a survey of United States military policy. It will include the significant themes of the civil-military relations, strategic planning, and the conduct of war from the Anglo-Indian Wars of the 17th century to the Persian Gulf Conflicts. This new description will also fulfill the military history course requirement for Army ROTC students.

Faculty and resources required: The course will require one classroom in Capers Hall, textbooks as outlined in the course syllabus, audio-visual equipment, and Professor Jennifer Speelman as instructor.

III. PROPOSED DELETION OF COURSES

The department proposes that the following courses be deleted from the catalogue.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EXERCISE, & SPORT SCIENCE

PROFESSIONAL TRACK-HEALTH & WELLNESS

The purposes of these proposed curricular changes are:

- To enable all freshmen cadets to take RPED 250 in fall semester freshman year;
- To enable all freshmen cadets to take RPED 251 in spring semester freshman year;
- It is pedagogically advantageous for our sophomore majors to take PHED 203 in the spring semester rather than fall semester.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION TEACHING TRACK

The purposes of these proposed curricular changes are:

- To enable all freshmen cadets to take RPED 250 in fall semester freshman year;
- To enable all freshmen cadets to take RPED 251 in spring semester freshman year;
- It is pedagogically advantageous for our sophomore majors to take PHED 203 in the spring semester rather than fall semester;
- To add a new required course for fall semester sophomore students that will introduce pre-physical education teaching track majors to effective instructional methodologies in physical education (e.g. NASPE/NCATE accreditation standards);
- To delete HIST 417 because our teaching track curriculum meets NASPE/NCATE standards by incorporating diversity lessons through all other courses in our teacher preparation curriculum.

Item 3. Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice

I. Proposed Curriculum Modification

Change the “cluster” configuration of the B.A. in Criminal Justice (BACJ) degree by eliminating the “cluster C” requirement and transferring its 3-course provision (9 hours) to “cluster A.” The change would increase the number of courses in cluster A to eight courses (24 hours) but would not alter the overall number of hours required for the degree.

II. Rationale

When the BACJ degree was established in 1998 it was decided to maintain a significant presence of political science courses in the requirements, during a transition period, and until the program was soundly established and could expand the criminal justice faculty.

In its current configuration the degree requires 18 hours of non-criminal justice courses (i.e., political science and sociology) among clusters B & C. Under the existing degree plan the BACJ requires only 27 hours in the major field (Four required courses plus Cluster A). This is the lowest number of required hours in the major field of any degree in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences (see IV below).

The BACJ has become a successful and popular major. In a brief time, it has grown to be the second largest major on campus now led by five full-time faculty. The inclusion of non-major field courses in cluster C, beyond the cluster B and general electives requirement, ceases to be necessary or practical given the current state of the degree program. This modification would raise the number of hours required in the major field to 36, which makes it comparable to the BA in History (beyond the core curriculum requirement) and closer to the number required in other social science majors in the School (see IV below). By increasing the required number of hours in the major, the change would facilitate more student exposure to the core content in the field. This acts to not only enrich their educational experience but improve performance on the discipline-specific ETS field test.

III. Revised B.A. in Criminal Justice Curriculum

PROPOSAL II
Minor in International Criminal Justice
Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice

I. Statement of Purpose

The minor in International Criminal Justice is an interdisciplinary concentration of courses designed to provide an academic experience that focuses on crime and law-related issues in a global context. International crime studies have become an important subfield within criminal justice due to the increased globalization of crime and its effects. This minor affords students the opportunity to explore and critically analyze issues involving transnational crime, drug trafficking, and global terrorism and the international and national organizations, laws, and justice processes responsible for the control of international crime. The purpose of the concentration is to enable students to become more informed global citizens regarding international crime and law issues.

II. Curriculum

To satisfy the requirements of the minor in International Criminal Justice, students must complete 15 hours of coursework as indicated below. The curriculum melds international topic courses from both criminal justice and political science disciplines. The minor consists of four required courses and one elective to be chosen from the courses listed.

PROPOSAL III
New Course
Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice

Course Name  International Crime

Credit Hours  3

Catalog Description  A study of transnational crime, criminals, and criminal organizations in a global context including an examination of international and national organizations, laws, and justice practices responsible for controlling multi-national criminal activity.

Rationale (General Statement) Modern transnational crime, drug trafficking, and global terrorism have become important areas of attention for scholars, policymakers, and governments. As a result, international crime study has emerged as a vital academic concentration. This course has been previously offered as a criminal justice special topics course at the undergraduate and graduate level. Given the value of its content to international study, the course should be included in the department’s permanent course offering. The benefit of this course is three-fold. First due to the globalization of crime in recent years, a course is needed that examines and critically analyzes the issues involving international crime, criminals, and criminal organizations since existing criminal justice courses focus primarily on the study of domestic crime. Second, this course is necessary to complement allied courses that address a variety of international criminal justice subjects (i.e., Comparative Criminal Justice Systems, International Terrorism, and others). Third, this course is an essential component in the proposed Minor in International Criminal Justice.
ATTACHMENT B

RECOMMENDATIONS FROM THE GRADUATE COUNCIL

Item 1. Division of Teacher Education, The School of Education

Remove PSYC 500 and EDUC 522 from list of required courses for MAT students.

During curriculum review of the Education offerings for the Master of Arts in Teaching programs, it was determined that there were overlaps in content provided to the students. This review included the review of NCATE and SPA standards as well as a review of the requirements necessary for preparation of the PRAXIS II Principles of Teaching and Learning (PRAXIS - PLT). During this review, the Teacher Education Task Force found that the areas of greatest overlap were between PSYC 500 and EDUC 536 and between EDUC 500 and EDUC 522. Additionally, over the past few years, courses in Special Methods in each content area have been added to strengthen areas of weakness. Therefore, the Teacher Education Division recommends that PSYC 500 and EDUC 522 be removed from the MAT requirements.

With this proposal, it is understood that students with no Psychology undergraduate background will be required to take an appropriate psychology course as an additional elective. Further, students entering the MAT with significant preparation in Education including Foundations of American Education will be encouraged to take EDUC 522 in lieu of repeating EDUC 500 at the graduate level.

In considering the number of hours for these Masters programs, the faculty feel that the reduction of the 6 hours would also make these degrees more marketable without compromising preparation of teacher candidates.

The enrollment in both EDUC 522 and PSYC 500 will decrease. These are required courses in other programs and will continue to be offered as needed.

Item 2. Proposed curricular changes to the 2007-2008 CGPS Catalog from the Department of Health, Exercise, & Sport Science. These proposed modifications are necessary because of curricular changes in the School of Education (M.A.T. programs) and the School of Business Administration (M.B.A. program). These modifications should have impact on costs for marketing or administration.

PROPOSED CHANGES TO THE CGPS CATALOG, 2007-2008
DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EXERCISE, & SPORT SCIENCE
Rationale for these changes: These proposed modifications are necessary because of curricular changes in the School of Education (M.A.T. programs) and the School of Business Administration (M.B.A. program) that will take effect with the 2007-2008 Academic Year.

1. We request to change the title of HESS 523 from “Managing Sport Organizations” to “Administration and Leadership of Exercise and Sport Organizations”.

2. We request to modify the course description of HESS 523 to read “This course examines organizational theory and behavior as well as leadership qualities related to exercise and sport organizations. Effectiveness, structure, and design of sport and exercise organizations will be addressed as well as cultures, leadership styles, conflicts, changes and human resources involved in these entities.”

3. We request adoption of the changes to the curriculum within the Master of Business Administration program administered by the School of Business Administration. This is necessary because the Sport Management concentration is partnered with the M.B.A. degree program.

4. The faculty of the School of Business Administration has agreed that students enrolled in the Sport Management concentration may substitute HESS 518 (Sport Marketing and Finance) in place of BADM 707 (Foundations of Marketing and International Business) and may substitute HESS 523 (Administration and Leadership of Exercise and Sport Organizations) in place of BADM 722 (Leadership in Organizations). We request adoption of these course substitutions for the Sport management concentration within the MBA program.

5. We request adoption of the changes to the curriculum within the Master of Arts in Teaching program administered by the School of Education. This is necessary because the M.A.T. program in Physical Education is responsible to the School of Education. These curricular changes (previously approved for the School of Education) are as follows:

   A. Two courses, PSYC 500 and EDUC 522 will be removed from the list of required courses for M.A.T. students.
   B. Teacher candidates must take the PRAXIS II Content area tests and PLT prior to the teaching internship.
   C. To graduate and be recommended for certification, teacher candidates must have successfully completed all certification tests for the State of South Carolina.

6. Pre-requisites or co-requisites for the Master of Arts in Teaching Physical Education program include:
A. A Biology, Chemistry, or Physics course should be successfully completed prior to a course in Human Anatomy and/or Human Physiology.

B. A Biology, Chemistry, or Physics course and a course in Human Anatomy and/or Human Physiology should be successfully completed prior to HESS 525, “Scientific Principles of Physical Education, Health, Exercise, and Sport Science”.

C. A Health & Wellness course should be successfully completed prior to HESS 527, “Content and Methods of Teaching School Health Education and the Health-Related Aspects of Physical Fitness”.

D. HESS 550, “Instructional Aspects of Physical Education” should be successfully completed prior to HESS 528, “Content and Methods of Teaching Rhythmic Activities and Movement Education” or permission of the HESS 528 professor.

E. HESS 550, “Instructional Aspects of Physical Education” should be successfully completed prior to HESS 533, “Content and Methods of Teaching Elementary School Physical Education” or permission of the HESS 533 professor.

F. A course in Statistics or Tests and Measurements should be successfully completed prior to taking HESS 540, “Research Techniques and Methods of Analyzing Research in Physical Education, Health, Exercise, & Sport Science I”.

G. HESS 550, “Instructional Aspects of Physical Education” should be successfully completed prior to HESS 551, “Content and Methods of Teaching Secondary Physical Education” or permission of the HESS 551 professor.

The Division of Educational Leadership of the School of Education is requesting admission and program requirement revisions for the Master of Education in School Administration and Supervision for the 2007-2008 CGPS Catalog. The requested changes and revisions set admission standards for applicants seeking a Master’s Degree or add-on certification and establish a proviso for internship enrollment.

The requested changes will assist CGPS in marketing the master’s program in elementary and secondary administration, simplify advisement between advisors and candidates, and provide a seamless transition to the Educational Specialist degree.

Item 4. From: Associate Dean, CGPS

1. Clarify Academic Standards Paragraph in Catalog.

2. The academic standards paragraph reads that “Any grade of “C” (ie. “C”, “C+”) is a warning that the individual is not performing to the level expected of graduate students…” (p. 10). Subparagraph b states that “If a student receives seven (7) or more credit hours of graduate course work with a grade of “C” regardless of his or her status, the student will be terminated from the program.”

   a. Some students have been confused that the paragraph as a whole classifies “C+” as a “C” but that subparagraph b does not.

   b. Proposed change: Change subparagraph b to read: “If a student receives seven (7) or more credit hours of graduate course work with a grade of “C” or “C+” regardless of his or her status, the student will be terminated from the program.”
